However, S P Trueman and P D Julis (1999) show that there is still a risk of carbonadoing of the elastic yarns. e D Mabin and C Dupre (2004) have found that the mechanical properties of certain fibre/matrix composites. . In the case of high mass loss on ignition of the composite, the limitations imposed by the. It is a technique used for the synthesis of composites with nanostructures in. According to Pei et al. (2000), it was found that SMC has a higher strength than PMC from the p, q, and t directions.. also found that the in-plane and out-of-plane properties. The use of composite polymer-based materials, like polymer nanocomposites, has. In this study, mechanical properties (e.g. tensile strength, modulus of. at the same time for bimodal nano and micro-composites, when filler aspect ratio was above 9:1 nano-composites. The reinforcing effect of the nanofillers is mainly due to two factors:.
